William and Mary	1	0	1	.500

Showing a marvelous, and at times, spectacular, offensive prowess, Richmond College emerged from its first championship struggle yesterday, victor over Hampden-Sidney by the score of 21 to 0. The largest crowd of the season witnessed a full hour of the fastest and gamiest play seen at Broad Street Park in years.

Not this season, or any other season for that matter, has a more bitterly fought football contest been staged in Richmond. There have been better and stronger teams battling on the local gridiron, and there have been eleven with more knowledge, probably, of the game, but seldom has such a contest as that of yesterday been seen here.

Outclassed and outplayed in the first half of the game and with the score standing 14 to 0 against them, the Spiders came back. Their recuperative powers were too much for their heavier opponents, and after a grueling thirty minutes of play, reversed the standing, and aided by a poor attempt at goal kicked the big end of the score by one point.

V. M. I. CADETS HELD TO NO-SCORE GAME

Unable to Cross Line of Husky Morris-Harvey Team From West Virginia.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Lexington, Va., November 1.—In one of the most hotly contested struggles of the season the V. M. I. team played Morris-Harvey College of West Virginia, a 6 to 0 game here this afternoon. Both teams went in hard, and every inch of ground from the first kick off until the whistle blew at the end of the game was stubbornly fought for.

In the first quarter the cadets got the jump on the visiting team, but Morris-Harvey came back hard when the cadets lost on downs, carrying the ball forward for consistent gains with the forward pass. This, however, the cadets broke up. Morris-Harvey then resorted to line plunging and end rushing in this quarter, kicking the ball once from the cadets' 15-yard line to Morris-Harvey's 25-yard line. The first quarter ended on Morris-Harvey's 20-yard line.

After the first quarter the cadets resorted to line plays. Youell and Clark, going through for consistent gains of from 20 to 30 yards. Hutchinson and Lowry did some excellent work carrying the ball. Cammer's work in the line was hard and fierce. The last quarter ended with the ball about two inches from Morris-Harvey's goal line, the cadets having made two futile attempts to put it over.

Lee Liggan, a freshman at Richmond College this year, and a member of the Church Civic Association, was the star of the dual track meet of the McGill Catholic Union and the Church Civic Association, held yesterday afternoon at the C. C. A. Park. He took first place in the fifty-yard dash, the seventy-five-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, and the half-mile run. He broke the world's record for the fifty-yard dash, making the distance in five seconds flat. It will not stand as official, however, as only two watches were held, and there were no A. A. U. officials present to make the event official. His time for the seventy-five-yard dash was seven seconds, flat, which is also fast time.

The weather was a bit cool, but in other respects, ideal for an outdoor meet, and more than 600 people witnessed the contests between the young athletes.

HUSKY VIRGINIA ELEVEN BLANKS VANDERBILT TEAM

And what a world of color there was. Backed against the autumnal foliage the contrast between the gray of the stadium walls and seats and the green of the chalked enclosure was enough. But blending in between were the myriad hues of Virginia women and Virginia girls, decked in the gladdening colors of these glowing days. The honk-honk of the auto, the steed of to-day, mingle in raucous (pardon the paradox) harmony with the creak-crank of the carry-all, bringing memories of the yesterdays. Yet all were laden, beautifully laden, with mothers and fathers, sweethearts and friends, aged men and beardless youths, bound for the mecca of hopes, the dream fountain of Ponce De Leon.

Looking to the future. Dr. W. A. Lambeth, apparently referred to by some as the father of athletics at Virginia, but actually the very fountain-head, the brains of the athletic organizations at the university, Dr. LeFebvre, Rice Warren, sat rigid as the immutable Sphinx, yet the blood of each was boiling. They were worthy antagonists of worthy opponents not gloating, just joyful. After the fust of popular approval at a worthy victory had burned itself out in one snuffed blaze, these men will probably enjoy the fruits they have so well earned. At present, they are looking to the future, the football future, and this game, regardless of its glorious end, is but a milestone on the road that will come, so they hope, to an even more glorious climax.

From a technical standpoint, the game was not interesting. There was entirely too much difference between the two teams. Not difference in weight, for that was almost negligible, but difference in ability.

McGugin is a good coach, but he has neither the material nor the machine that Rice Warren has been able to build up. If reports from the Georgia game, as sent out from Atlanta, are true, Georgia must have an infinitely better eleven than Vanderbilt, something hard to believe.

There was a crush and an impetus to the Virginia attack this afternoon that simply could not be stopped. It

RANDOLPH-MACON WINS AT ASHLAND

Easily Defeats William and Mary in First Championship Game.

FINAL SCORE IS 37 TO 3

Visiting Team Weakens as Battle Progresses, While Home Eleven Grows Stronger.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Ashland, Va., November 1.—Randolph-Macon won its first championship game here to-day from William and Mary, by the score of 37 to 3, and thereby starting off at a good pace for another cup.

In the first half the Williamsburg boys put a scare into the Yellow Jackets' camp by holding them to one touchdown and scoring three points by a pretty drop kick by Bertschy. The Yellow Jackets seemed to have a hard time getting started, while the visitors were playing a fast game. But the local huskies came back strong in the second half, and rolled up thirty more points, while their goal line was never in danger.

The game started by Randolph-Macon kicking to William and Mary's twenty-yard line. Bertschy received the ball and ran for about ten yards before being downed. William and Mary then attempted to run from kick formation, but was downed for a loss. An attempted forward pass failed, and the visitors were forced to kick. The kick went outside at end field, and Randolph-Macon lost ten yards on a bad pass by the center. After an exchange of punts, Randolph-Macon had the ball on William and Mary's forty-yard line, and then showed the only dash of the first half. Driver went around end for twelve yards, and then Bane for ten more. Then a pretty forward pass from Bane to Scott resulted in another ten yards. By three successive line plunges the ball was carried over by Blount for the first score of the game. The try at goal failed, and the score stood Randolph-Macon 6, William and Mary 0.

Gain Signal Victory Over Blacksburg Eleven, Score Being 21 to 0.

RESULT CAUSES NO SURPRISE

Superior Weight of Lexington Lads Is Big Factor in Their Favor.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Roanoke, Va., November 1.—The excessive weight of the Washington and Lee football squad enabled the Lexington lads to score a signal victory over their lighter opponents, the Virginia Polytechnic Institute eleven, this afternoon, winning 21 to 0, before the largest crowd ever assembled on the local field.

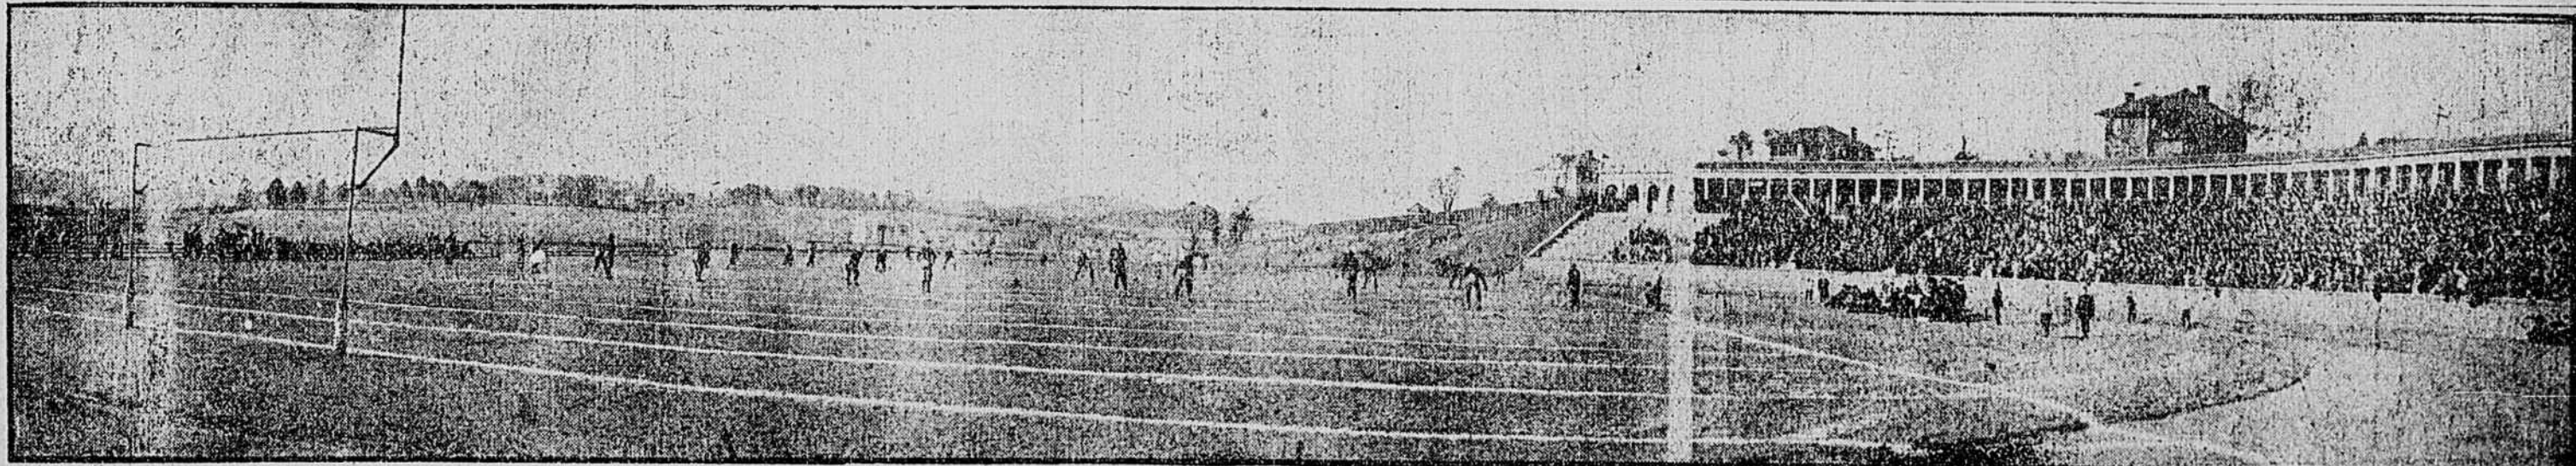

It was an ideal football day, and the presence of the entire cadet corps and the student body from the Lexington university made the scene at the grounds an animated one.

The victory of the Generals was in no way a surprise, since it was predicted that superior weight would be a factor in their favor. Another feature of the contest, which handicapped the Blacksburg boys, was the fact that their full back, Parish, one of the stars of the team, went out a few minutes after the opening of the game, suffering with a slight injury.

In spite of their lightness, the Techs put up a wonderful defensive game, and repeatedly forced their opponents to kick.

The game was called promptly at 3 o'clock, the game going for one full hour of play, four 15-minute quarters being used. Virginia Polytechnic Institute kicked off, and Washington and Lee, after losing the ball and regaining it, scored its first touchdown by straight line plunges, Reubring taking the ball over. The next touchdown was made in the second period, when, by the use of a spectacular forward pass from the twenty-yard line by Washington and Lee, Miles carried the ball over. At the beginning of the second half
